

Hope you've been having a great holiday. It's hard to imagine that 2012 is literally two days away. Where did 2011 go?

So many official court reporters have become Certified Realtime Reporters this year. I am blown away by the hard work, dedication, and perseverance everyone has shown in achieving this certification. I know how extremely difficult this has been! Congratulations to everyone who has accomplished this goal!! To the officials who are still striving towards this accomplishment: Keep up the practicing. I know the goal is within your grasp. Whatever the task force can do to help you, please let us know! We want to do whatever we can to support and guide you.

The task force has scheduled another training session this January. It will be in the Denver metro area. We have yet to confirm where we're going to have this session. This training will be on Saturday, January 28, 2012.

We had a training session scheduled this past November in Pueblo; however, due to inclement weather, that was postponed. Once we have firmed up a new date and a place, we'll let you know.

I'm attaching some more writing hints given to me by various reporters and I'm sharing these with you. If you have any tricks that you'd like to pass on to me, I'll send them out in another O-Blast.

Happy New Year to all of Colorado's amazing court officials!
We'll see you soon.
